

LARK

Library Applied
Research Kollektive

What is LARK?

LARK is a new group of librarians and other professionals interested in applied research and evidence-based practice. We believe that professionals in different types of libraries and information centres share similar interests so we want to encourage collaboration and information exchange across sectors.

Who should join?

- Anyone who works or wants to work in the library and information sector
- LIS students and teachers.

How do we communicate?

Mainly electronically. The initial LARK group is Sydney-based, but we have the first international members and are welcoming people from any place.

How to join?

- Go to <http://lark-kollektive.blogspot.com.au> and subscribe to the LARK discussion list
- Send us an email to lark.kollektive@gmail.com
- Like us on Facebook.

LARKs in the first meeting at St.Vincent's
College, Potts Point